How to apply

1. Read the important information about this study-program. It can be found here, here, and here.
2. Read and print the Application Instructions for the study-program. This form can be found here under "Bachelor-Studiengänge" with the file name "European Culture and Society (English)".
3. The application to this study-program is conducted online. In order to start your online-application, click here.
IMPORTANT: only online-application forms filled in within the application period are considered valid
4. Then you will be redirected to an online form. On the top left side of that page you will find a small flag representing the idioms in which the form is available: German and English.
5. Fill in all the required fields accurately and follow the instructions on each of the 15 steps of the application. (See instructions here.)

It is highly recommended to save the PDF file, before printing to avoid any loss of information!

6. The completing of the online application form is just the first step in the application process. Carefully fill in the form "Application Instructions for the study-program" (See here again) - this document reiterates what other required documents should be submitted together with the printed online application form to the Admissions Office by the application deadline. Make sure that the documents are either in German or in English and duly notarized.

*Updates due to Corona: Because city halls currently are not offering notarial/document authentication services, applicants to EUF degree programs may include in their application simple copies of the required documents (§ 16.3, Sentence 1, Number 3 of the registration regulations, together with § 108 1 of the Corona Act of May 8, 2020). The university reserves the right to randomly request originals or officially authenticated (notarized) copies of the certificates and documents that were submitted with the application for admission to EUF, even after the student has already enrolled. Forgery will result in the student's immediate withdrawal from studies. Foreign documents must still be submitted as translated versions in German or English, and must be officially authenticated/notarized.
