What I found most interesting so far:

🔊 Listen

In Academic Skills (1st semester) we receive a first look at how interdisciplinarity can be used and its importance by taking one topic and having professors from different faculties come and discuss this topic from the perspective of their discipline. Some examples were from the perspective of natural sciences, an artist's view, even a politician's understanding and standpoint on the topic. This way we could see how different issues can be analysed from several points of view.

Through the class Social Practice (4th semester), we got the chance to apply the knowledge received through the several semesters by going on a class excursion to Brussels to analyze EU migration policies.

Academic profile and study objectives

The B.A. European Cultures and Society (EUCS) is an English-speaking, interdisciplinary studies-program focusing on the cultural and social sciences of Europe.

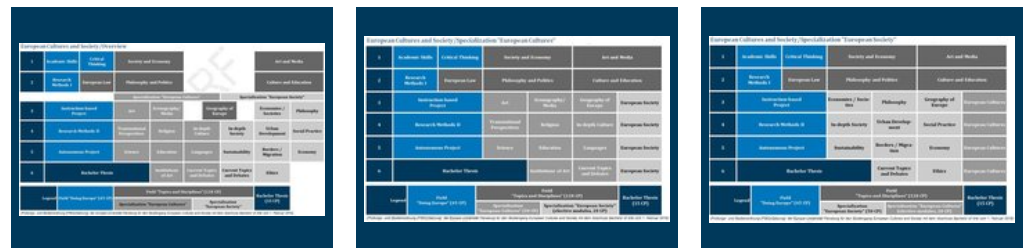

Empirical research methods, as well as hermeneutical methods of critical thinking, enable students to work in interdisciplinary settings.

One of the particular features throughout this program, is its project-based application of scientific knowledge in the fields of research, journalism, art and scenography, or entrepreneurship, which prepares students for dealing with the practical challenges of their future careers.

As an international B.A., with all classes taught in English, the program requires the completion of one semester abroad.

It is mandatory to complete a semester abroad in one of our several international partner universities.
 In the semester abroad you will develop your language skills as well as intercultural communication competencies.

Overview

Explications

Introduction phase (1 and 2 semesters):

- » The field "Topics and Disciplines" covers an introduction to Europe from the disciplinary perspectives of philosophy, culture, education, art, and media, as well as sociology, politics, economics, geography, and European law.
- » The field "Doing Europe" focuses on research methods, as well as on a first introduction to the project-fields of research, journalism, art and scenography, and entrepreneurship.

Development phase (3 and 4 semesters):

- » The field "Topics and Disciplines" subdivides into two different points of specialization: "European Cultures" or "European Society," from which the students focus mainly on one, while still maintaining some contact with the other.
- » The field "Doing Europe" revolves around projects with relevant topics, related to Europe, which can be implemented through elected fields out of the four available: research, journalism, art and scenography, or entrepreneurship. Research methods are also featured.

Deepening phase (5 and 6 semesters):

- » In the field "Topics and Disciplines" the chosen specialization point, "European Cultures" or "European Society", is deepened, namely through the interdisciplinary approach to current problems and debates related to European cultures or society.
- » In the field "Doing Europe" individual work in one of the four available fields (research, journalism, art and scenography, or entrepreneurship) is emphasized.

The 6th semester is dedicated to writing the Bachelor Thesis. In a colloquium students prepare to present their results at a conference.

The 4th and 5th semesters are organized in a way that makes it easier for students to choose doing their semester abroad during this period of time. To make the integration abroad smoother, the students are encouraged to take part in the language courses offered by the Language Center of the Europa-Universität Flensburg.
