SYMPOSIUM THEME

Understanding how firms and other stakeholders cooperate and exploit networked resources is the core agenda of this research symposium. Increasingly, owning resources appears to be less relevant to contemporary organisations than having access to resourceful networks.

Businesses need to take into account the interplay between local activities in regional clusters and those embedded in global value chains in turbulent times. Their various value creation activities may follow different organisational principles – exchange modes vary between market, hierarchy and cooperative governance forms. The notion of cultivating and accessing resourceful networks thus is significant. Business activities extend beyond the focal firm and into a dynamic relational space which connects stakeholders, other firms and industry participants in changing ecosystems.

The organisers of the research symposium have the aim to bring together researchers from diverse backgrounds to share knowledge and insights into the topic of networks in changing business environments. Building on this interdisciplinary exchange we seek to establish a broad cooperative research agenda about the contemporary role of businesses in an increasingly networked world.

INVITATION TO ATTEND

The symposium is primarily held in-person in Sønderborg (Denmark). However, we also offer the possibility to join online. Hence, the symposium will be in a hybrid-mode.

INVITED TOPICS

We are interested in developing knowledge about the role of relational resources in a networked environment within changing business ecosystems.

We invite papers from a wide range of multidisciplinary and cross-sectoral approaches in the following topic areas:

- Nascent ecosystems and transformation
- Ecosystems in regenerative economies
- Sustainability-oriented strategies, resources & networks
- Stakeholder engagement in ecosystems
- Transformation of global value chains
- Challenge-led innovation
- Regional resources/location advantage

ORGANISATIONAL MATTERS

The symposium will be a combination of keynote speeches, paper presentations and highly interactive sessions. We strive for an informal set-up and a lot of interaction. There is no fee for participation but it is expected participants pay for their transport, accommodation and meals during the conference.
