Technical instructions for “Cisco Webex”

Welcome...

to the 5th International Research Symposium, which will take place hybrid, which means those who cannot be there live in Flensburg will have the chance to join online.

For the online participation we will use the program “Cisco Webex”. To ensure that you can participate easily and well prepared in the conference, we have compiled some instructions for you.

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact René Steffes (pundo-shk@uni-flensburg.de). He will be happy to assist you with technical questions.

Do I need to install an app in advance?

Not necessarily, Cisco Webex is available on many different devices. You can join the conference with most of the known browsers (e.g., Edge, Chrome, and Safari), without downloading anything.

But there is also an app, which can be accessed with Windows, MacOS, Android and IOS devices, which we strongly recommend to use. If you decide to use the app, you can download the application here.

How do I join the conference?

The weblink can be found in the e-mail you received after registering. When you use the app for the first time, you will have to allow Cisco Webex to use your camera and microphone (there should appear a pop-up-window, demanding you to do so). Before finally joining the conference meeting, you will have the possibility to check and (de)activate your camera and microphone. These settings can be changed anytime later. If you are ready, just click on the green button “join meeting”, and you will directly join the conference’s main room
