About Flensburg

Flensburg

The city of Flensburg is characterized by its waterside location and by the immediate proximity of its neighboring country, Denmark. For 400 years Flensburg belonged to the Danish crown. This has left traces behind and still provides exciting diversity today – for the city, the region and the fjord. Located at the northernmost point of Germany, the city is the gateway to Scandinavia. It is only a few miles drive to the Danish border.

Between the Rote Strasse and the North Gate lies one of the most diversified shopping streets in the whole of the north. It is more than one kilometre long, has about 500 shops and is situated right in the heart of the town.

Rote Straße

Facts

Flensburg is known for:

- its beer Flensburger, also called Flens
- being the centre of the Danish national minority in Germany
- „Moin Moin!“, the local way of saying hello, and the Danish way to say goodbye
- Norderstraße with its hanging shoes
- the variety of languages spoken: German, Danish, Sønderjysk, Low German, and various Frisian dialects
- being 8,8 kilometers from the Danish border

Shopping

In the city centre you will find lots of shops, cafés and restaurants. Rote Straße offers quaint atrium houses, cafés and many art shops.
