Compulsory elective module 952002150 5 2 SWS 150 h 30 h 120 h 1 semester Several Stripe Several Severa	Master of Arts European Studies Rules and Regulations 2019
Module 15	Module title European Society
Upon completion of this module, students are able to analyse different social phenomena and problems concerning the social dimensions of and ask (empirically based and/or theoretically informed) questions about an emerging European society. To this end, students are introduct different sociological concepts and (theoretical) approaches, enabling them to understand, analyse and critically evaluate societal phenomena and ask (empirically) based and/or theoretically informed) questions about an emerging European society. To this end, students are introduct different sociological concepts and (theoretical) approaches, enabling them to understand, analyse and critically evaluate societal phenomena and problems concerning the social dimensions of societal change, e.g., globalisation processes of European society and in the critically investigate recent as well as historical processes of European society and interrelate processes of European society and interrelated processes. They become sensitive to the potentials and restrictions of specific approaches in studying European society and in written form. Students are able to work out sociological research questions and to identify suitable theoretical as well as empirical approaches to deal wit range of societal topics. They present selected topics orally and in written form. Students are able to learn to collaborate in different ways, to present and analyse problems in the abovementioned fields, either individually partner and/or group situation in a manner appropriate to the addresses. They can articulate their thoughts orally and/or in written form in a caching and learning formats Methods of instruction include, but are not limited to, ex-cathedra teaching, classroom discussions, student pr	Compulsory elective module		Credit points	edit points Weekly semester hours				self-study	Period .			Stage of study and ask (empirically based and/or theoretically informed) questions about an emerging European society. To this end, students are introduced inferent sociological concepts and (theoretical) approaches, enabling them to understand, analyse and critically evaluate societal phenome Europe. Thus, students are able to study the ongoing process of Europeanisation in various spheres such as politics, economy, culture, and a on an advanced beef (i.e. building on Module 6). They can also critically investigate recent as well as historical processes of European society building and interrelate processes of Europeanisation with other dimensions of societal change, e.g., globalisation processes. Students are able to analyse selected topics from a sociological perspective. Students deepen their ability to develop a well-founded position defend it argumentatively in discussions. They become sensitive to the potentials and restrictions of specific appoaches in studying European Society in the process of Europeanisation with other dimensions of societal change, e.g., globalisation processes. Students are able to work out sociological research questions and to identify suitable theoretical as well as empirical approaches in studying European Society or any process of Europeanisation with other dimensions of specific appoaches in studying European Society or present and analyse problems in the abovementioned fields, either individual interpersonal competence are able to learn to collaborate in different ways, to present and analyse problems in the abovementioned fields, either individual partner and/or group situation in a manner appropriate to the addressees. They can articulate their thoughts orally and/or in written form in a academically competent, culturally appropriate and gender-sensitive manner. Methodo of instruction include, but are not limited to, ex-cathedra teaching, classroom discussions, student processes and to defend it appropriate propriate and revolutions. Method correlations are appropriated to the sensit			5	2	! SWS	150 h	30 h	120 h	1 semester			3rd semester
Professional competence defend it argumentatively in discussions. They become sensitive to the potentials and restrictions of specific appoaches in studying Europea Methodological competence Students are able to work out sociological research questions and to identify suitable theoretical as well as empirical approaches to deal wit range of societal topics. They present selected topics orally and in written form. Students are able to learn to collaborate in different ways, to present and analyse problems in the abovementioned fields, either individually partner and/or group situation in a manner appropriate to the addressees. They can articulate their thoughts orally and/or in written form in academically competent, culturally appropriate and gender-sensitive manner. Methods of instruction include, but are not limited to, ex-cathedra teaching, classroom discussions, student presentations and different form student group work and self-study. Module coordinator Professorship in European Sociology (Prof. Dr. Monika Eigmüller) Module transferability M.A. European Studies Sub-module Teaching Weekly Compulsory Compulsory Compulsory Compulsory Section Samination type Graded? Planned group Classroom Preparation P	Learning objective		Upon completion of this module, students are able to analyse different social phenomena and problems concerning the social dimensions of Europ and ask (empirically based and/or theoretically informed) questions about an emerging European society. To this end, students are introduced to different sociological concepts and (theoretical) approaches, enabling them to understand, analyse and critically evaluate societal phenomena in Europe. Thus, students are able to study the ongoing process of Europeanisation in various spheres such as politics, economy, culture, and society on an advanced level (i.e. building on Module 6). They can also critically investigate recent as well as historical processes of European society building and interrelate processes of Europeanisation with other dimensions of societal change, e.g. globalisation processes.
Interpersonal competence range of societal topics. They present selected topics orally and in written form. Students are able to learn to collaborate in different ways, to present and analyse problems in the abovementioned fields, either individually partner and/or group situation in a manner appropriate to the addressees. They can articulate their thoughts orally and/or in written form in academically competent, culturally appropriate and gender-sensitive manner. Methods of instruction include, but are not limited to, ex-cathedra teaching, classroom discussions, student presentations and different form student group work and self-study. Module coordinator Professorship in European Sociology (Prof. Dr. Monika Eigmüller) Module transferability M.A. European Studies Sub-modules Sub-modules Nr. Title Teaching weekly method semester hours compulsory elective Examination type Graded? Planned group for eview land review and review and review page of the page including types. Seminar 2 Compulsory Paper including Yes 1 30 30 30 60	Profes	ssional competence	Students are able to analyse selected topics from a sociological perspective. Students deepen their ability to develop a well-founded position and to defend it argumentatively in discussions. They become sensitive to the potentials and restrictions of specific appoaches in studying European topics
Interpersonal competence partner and/or group situation in a manner appropriate to the addressees. They can articulate their thoughts orally and/or in written form in academically competent, culturally appropriate and gender-sensitive manner. Methods of instruction include, but are not limited to, ex-cathedra teaching, classroom discussions, student presentations and different form student group work and self-study. Module coordinator Professorship in European Sociology (Prof. Dr. Monika Eigmüller) Module transferability M.A. European Studies Sub-modules Sub-modules	Methodological competence		Students are able to work out sociological research questions and to identify suitable theoretical as well as empirical approaches to deal with a range of societal topics. They present selected topics or ally and in written form.
Teaching and learning formats student group work and self-study. Module coordinator Professorship in European Sociology (Prof. Dr. Monika Eigmüller) Module prerequisites Attendance in module 6 Module transferability M.A. European Studies Sub-modules Sub-modules Teaching Weekly compulsory-/ compulsory-/ compulsory-/ compulsory-lective Examination type Graded? Planned group size preparation and review nad revie	Interpersonal competence		Students are able to learn to collaborate in different ways, to present and analyse problems in the abovementioned fields, either individually, in a partner and/or group situation in a manner appropriate to the addressees. They can articulate their thoughts orally and/or in written form in an academically competent, culturally appropriate and gender-sensitive manner.
Module prerequisites MALEuropean Studies Sub-modules Sub-modules Teaching method semester hours compulsory-/ compulsory elective semester hours semester	Teaching and learning formats		Methods of instruction include, but are not limited to, ex-cathedra teaching, classroom discussions, student presentations and different forms of student group work and self-study.
Module transferability M.A. European Studies Sub-modules Sub-modules Sub-modules Flanned group classroom n and review semester hours compulsory-/ compulsory elective end of the state	Module coordinator		Professorship in European Sociology (Prof. Dr. Monika Eigmüller)
Sub-modules Sub-m	Module prerequisites		Attendance in module 6
Nr. Title Teaching method semester hours compulsory-/ compulsory elective Examination type Flanned group classroom n and review size Planned group classroom hours Planned group classroom n and review size Planned group classroom n and review size Paper including Paper including Paper including	Modu	le transferability	M.A. European Studies
Nr. Title Teaching method Weekly semester hours Compulsory-/ compulsory-/ compulsory elective Examination type Graded? Planned group Classroom n and review Exam proposed propo	Sub-modules Sub-modules
Nr. Title Teaching method semester hours compulsory-/ co										St		ss kload
1. European Society Seminar 2 Compulsory Paper including Yes											n and	Exam preparation
European Society 952002155 Paper including Yes	Nr.	Title	952002151	method	semester hours	compulsory elective	Examination type	Graded?	size	hours	review	and review
Paper including Yes 6	1.	European Society		Seminar	2	Compulsory			30	30	60
			952002155
	x	Module examination						Yes				60
Notes on the module examination: Research paper (15-20 pages) and presentation (20 minutes)									I	1	1
Comments/ Other: This module belongs to area 2 (Social- und Economic Sciences) of the 3rd semester compulsory electives.	Comm	nents/ Other:	This module belongs to area 2 (Social- und Economic Sciences) of the 3rd semester compulsory electives.
28.0	28.03.2019												