

Bachelor of Arts		International Management
	ECTS	frequency	contact hours	total workload	contact time	self-study	duration
Module 29 Elective Module 153005020	5	every 2nd semester (fall term)	2 hrs/week	150 h	30 h	120 h	1 Semester
Module title	Latin American Economic and Social Development
After successfully completing the module, students will be able to take an independent position on current problems of development economics at an initial level of specialisation. In particular, they are able to combine current events with the relevant theoretical components and to acquire the basic statements of current research results in the relevant field. The module provides an introduction to development economics. First, the theoretical basics are chosen before selected topics are dealt with in depth. Students can set priorities here. Topics such as poverty and income inequality, human capital, direct investment, development aid, the environment and development are frequently dealt with. Access to and handling of current research literature is practiced and actively used for the first time.
Moduel component
Nr.	Title
1,	153005021 Development Economics						