

What the green woodpecker looks like

There is more than just one species of woodpecker. In the following you'll get know what the green woodpecker looks like.

To distance his territory from other ones the green woodpecker he aspirates a special sound. It is also called laughing because it sounds like this. All year round you can hear the „kjückkjückkjück“ of the green woodpecker.

The woodpecker's top ist red. Around the eyes you can see a black mask. This is the reason why this bird is called the „woodpecker with the thieve-mask„ also. On the females's cheeks is a black spot. This spot of the males is red and black.

You often see the green woodpecker at the ground.

There he looks for ants. When he is that crouched he ell-camouflaged because of his green feathering. An adult woodpecker is 33 cm tall. Jung ones a smaller and have dark spots on the top feathering.

Work order: Try to find out which bird of the picture is the female, which the male and the young one. Choose one and draw a big example of this on a poster. Take the right colors. Do you get it without looking at the text again? Have fun! =)