ICES QUALIFICATION OPPORTUNITIES

A central pillar is the bi-weekly ICES Research Atelier. It offers all ICES research school members the opportunity to present their research and to discuss it in an interdisciplinary way. Besides, renowned researchers in the field of European Studies offer regularly colloquia and workshops. Within ICES projects and with our partners, we organize summer/ winter schools and specific trainings.

The affiliation of the European Wasatia Graduate School for Peace and Conflict Resolution offers additional qualification opportunities to understanding the structural nature of conflict and the development of conflict resolution strategies.

QUALIFICATION PROGRAM FOR EARLY STAGE RESEARCHERS (QP)

Within this program, we support EUF PhD and post-doctoral researchers with free courses on overarching key qualifications in the areas of methodology, self-organization and self-reflection. Developed and organized by ZWW (EUF's Centre for Further Education), it is funded by ZeBUSS, ICES, the Research Committee and the ZWW.

Objectives of ICES

EUf is committed to continually deepening its focus on Europe. In recent years, the university has created nearly twenty new professorships with a European academic orientation and has established a European University Alliance “Emerge” fostering networking across Europe.

The Interdisciplinary Centre for European Studies expands and deepens this European Studies orientation of Europa-Universität Flensburg in the field of research.

At ICES, a unique, diverse and inter-complementary cluster of experts is dedicated to the study of European topics within social sciences, law and economics, as well as within the humanities and cultural studies.

With an understanding of Europe as a permanently renegotiated complex system which requires the involvement of various disciplines, we promote research and networking at all levels.

ICES serves as the university's first point of contact for the broader academic and non-academic communities.

Research School

The Interdisciplinary Centre for European Studies (ICES) has set itself the goal of promoting early stage researchers in the field of European Studies at the EUf. The ICES Research School is the central pillar to reach this goal!

We offer early stage researchers opportunities to network beyond disciplinary boundaries and to sharpen their qualification profile for a career in academia. In an international setting with , we promote continuous exchange and enable joint research on interdisciplinary topics in the field of European Studies.

Doctoral and postdoctoral researchers from all disciplines whose research deals with European topics are cordially invited to join the ICES Research School. It is open to both EUf's researchers as well as to researchers from other institutions.

Affiliated to the ICES Research School is the European Wasatia Graduate School for Peace and Conflict Resolution. The academic core of this trilateral project lies in an interdisciplinary, transnational and multi-religious doctoral program; it identifies truth as well as law as a condition for peace and conflict resolution in the Israeli-Palestinian relationship

Networking & Funding

With the ICES Research School, we support doctoral students and postdocs at various levels comprising beside qualification opportunities also:

NETWORKING:

The ICES Research School offers a variety of opportunities for interdisciplinary and cross-institute networking, in particular through regular meetings, colloquia and workshops, as well as with office and meeting facilities. We are also happy to facilitate invitations of guest researchers.

FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES:

ICES publishes twice per year (May and November) a Call for Field Research Proposals under which ICES Research School Members are invited to apply for funding to realise archival and interview travels. We also support our members in applying for third-party funding - individually and comprehensively from the project idea to the proposal submission.
